Water baby

BPA toxins from plastics are something we should all keep away from and Cheeki water bottles and coffee cups are the perfect way to do it – while earning eco-friendly points too.

Featured here are the 500ml Green Owl water bottle (brand new this summer) and the Coffee Raw coffee cup. Both are made with pure grade 304 stainless steel, safe to drink from and reusable time and time again.

RRP: Green Owl 500ml water bottle $15.95; Raw Coffee cup $13.95.

Beach season is well and truly here and with the right accessories keeping you cool and comfy this summer, there's all the more reason to settle in, lay back and laze away those long hot days ocean-side.

Pack it up

The new Hawaiian collection of eco-wise PAKitToMe backpacks from EnviroTrend are the ultimate in compact (and eco-friendly) beach bags. Closed, they are the size of a packet of potato chips but opened up, they fold out into a full-on backpack big enough for towel, book, sunscreen... all the accessories (up to 8kg worth). Also available are the SAKitToMe shopping bags which hold up to 20kg.

RRP: PAKitToMe $15.99; SAKitToMe $9.99.

Seamlessly smooth

Designed by pro surfer Mick Fanning, the new Rip Curl MFI Mirage boardshort is totally seamless, eliminating any niggling discomfort from chafing seams. It's the first boardshort to use just one single piece of fabric (fused together with illusion tape) and the result is quite simply, seamless. It's Mick's favourite Mirage boardshort of all time – and it's ours too.

RRP: $89.99

Light and shade

If you don't want to spend the day battling with your beach umbrella it's worth going for something sturdy. The Daytripper beach umbrella from Beachkit weighs in at just 2.5kg but offers a massive 205cm canopy and a self-anchoring auger that locks into the sand – so chances are you won't be chasing it down the beach at the first gust of wind. The long-lasting fabric also gives UPF 50+ UV protection to block out those harmful rays, as well as the heat.

RRP: $82.50
